

The USDSA's Tactical Entry/ Active Shooter's course is a very good training course for law enforcement officers in all assignments and types of organizations. It does not matter whether you are assigned to Patrol, Administration, Ancillary Services or another division; the training incorporates everyone, regardless of skill-level, and teaches them to work effectively in pairs and small units. One of the best features of the training is that it does not focus solely on one type of scenario (Dynamic vs. Stealth), but incorporates the principles of good entry and room clearing techniques that can be utilized appropriately depending upon the situation presented. I am very pleased that this course has been part of our training curriculum.
